FAIR CONTINUES TO DRAW CROWDS

Attendance at Raleigh Is Record-Breaking - Results of Races.

Races.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Raieigh, N. C., October 21.—It is estimated that there were at least 40,000 people here for the State Fair Thursday, aways the big day of fair week, and that the crowd was fully 20,000 for Friday, thus assuring the financial as well as the artistic and commercial success of the fair, which is coming more and more to be a great State exposition—the ultimate ideal of the inanagement.

The part that the State Department of Agriculture has taken in the 1910 fair is most notable, both in the way of tempting cash premiums for agricultural products and in actual department exhibits, showing the varied endeavors the divisions are making for the furtherance of improved methods of farming and protecting the people from imposition through adulteration of products. The department is represented by divisions. That of "foods" shows some 300 samples of foods and drinks, pure and adulterated, and means of protection against imposition. The division of "test farms" shows especially corn varieties in representative types, in connection with samples of the soils in which they were grown. Other grains are treated in the same way Fertilization and comparative yields through a series of years are set out.

The races to-day were favored with spendid track conditions. The results follow:

The Billboard of August 20, says of Lyman H. Howe's engagement in Baltimore:

"Howe's moving pictures are all the rage, and the audiences are distinctly representative of intellect and fashion. Pictures representing scenes in foreign countries appeal greatly to the audiences. A picture showing views of the cruption of Mt. Etna evoked the greatest interest and applause. King Edward's funeral was the feature of the week. Large crowds are always in attendance, and the demand for admission is greater than the accommodations afford."

Cubs didn't lose yesterday.

Cole and Bender will fight it out today. Lots of people would give a good deal to know who will be the winner. Me, too.

IF the Cubs should win to-day, what a crowd there will be to see the game Sunday. Also it gives Chance four straight games at home, which should be some help.

Two championships go to the National League anyway. Cincinnati won from Cleveland, and the Giants have trimmed the Yankees. Some consolation for the Cubs' defeat.

Napoleon Lajoic is the latest to throw down Fletcher. He has sent his check for $1,000 back to the would-be mag-nate, declining to go on tour. Pretty soon Fletcher will have nothing left but a bunch of canceled contracts and forlary hope. forlorn hope.

Johnny Evers, writing from his sick bed, still contends that Chance has it all over Mack as a manager. Maybe he has, but it will take more than Evers's word to prove it to thousands of fans who have watched the present

Ty Cobb has presented to "Germany" Schaefer, of the Washington club, his old automobile as a token of esteem and regard, "If it had not been for Herman," says Ty, "I would not have developed into the ball player that I am to-day. He took a great interest in my welfare." Mighty nice of Ty at that

What did I tell you? Willie Beecher stopped Young Corbett in the fourth round last Thursday night. Corbett is an awfully good fellow, but his days as a fighter have gone. He will walk nine miles to stack up against a faro game, and unless he bought his meal ticket immediately after the ghost walked, he is broke right now. Only a hungry man would take the beating which Corbett received at the hands of Beecher. The bout was mercifully stopped by the referee.

Joseph F. A. Hagan, who is Philadelphia Jack O'Brien under normal conditions, is being sued by his partner, who says that Jack is giving him the worst of the deal in connection with their athletic club venture. Jack, when he was handed the papers, with all of his original patronymic appended, failed to recognize the party wanted, and it took some time to convince him that the service was for him.

All those people who are relying on figures to find out which is the best team, the Cubs or the Athletics, can cast their glimmers on the following. During the world's series, comprising three games, here is how the two teams have fielded and batted:

Cubs—Fielding average, $55; batting average, 189.

Athletics—Fielding average, 943; batting average, 256.

No need to wonder how it happened after you fully digest the above.

That boy, King, left half back on the High School team, is destined for better things in football. He will make mighty rich material when the time comes for him to enter college. He doesn't know how to stop, and given the ball, he is sure to gain his length if nothing more.

Young Hammond looked like a David among Goliahs. But he wasn't afraid, and made some mighty pretty tackies. Also be it noted that few attempts were made to circle his end.

Ebel, of McGuire's, plays the game like a veteran. He runs well, tackles well, and, most of all, he uses his head. If a player will start out with the idea that football requires brains as much as brawn he will come out without injuries, and will be of far greater value to his team.

As many of the Paulist Fathers are, or have been, converts to the faith, they are keenly alive to the position and difficulties of those not members of the Catholic Church. Hence the answering of queries, placed the day before in the question box, will be a most interesting part of the religious program. All who have difficulties concerning any point of Catholic belief are invited to put their difficulties on paper in the form of questions and to drop them into the question box at the front door. All Catholics who attend the mission are required to bring with them a non-Christian friend who may be desirous of getting accurate information concerning what Catholics nformation concerning what Catholic really believe.

Besides the non-Catholic mission of pext week, the Catholic children who have already received their first communion will have for themselves a special mission of four days, beginning with Monday. The exercises will take place each morning at 8 o'clock, and will consist of mass, devotional hymns and instruction by one of the fathers. The children's mission will close with holy communion on Thursday morning.
